

LIZ KEEVER, Executive Coach, Facilitator and Speaker

In her 30 years of experience in adult learning, Liz has helped develop leaders in various environments. She has coached business leaders nationally and internationally. Liz has worked with leaders at IBM, Maersk, The Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, Columbia Executive Education, Goldman Sachs, Harvard Executive Education, New York University Stern School of Business, Chubb, Citigroup, Standard Bank, Ernst & Young, Chevron, PepsiCo, Verizon, Rockefeller Foundation, the United Nations and the Central Intelligence Agency. She has personally coached emerging leaders as well as leaders in the C-suite from Fortune 100 companies in financial services, management consulting, pharmaceuticals and manufacturing. Liz has helped to develop leaders or leadership programs in China, India, Japan, Europe, the Middle East and Africa via in-person sessions, phone and video calls.

Liz is an award-winning international speaker and author. She has led workshops and presentations for the American Society for Training & Development (ASTD), International Coach Federation, and the International Association of Business Communicators. She presented at the International Conference on Knowledge, Culture and Change in Organizations at Cambridge University in August 2008. Her paper, on the use of video in collaborative learning, is published in the same journal. Her work in virtual communication has been called “cutting edge.” She has been published in the Training Journal and her most recent article on “E-Coaching” appears in Technology-Enabled Learning Excellence for HR.com.

Academic:

Adjunct faculty at New York University in the department of Leadership and Human Capital Management where she taught executive coaching, teambuilding and leadership at the graduate level.

Education:

M.A. in Strategic Communication and Leadership from Seton Hall University

B.A. in Cultural Studies Concentration: Communication Training for Adults - State University of New York

Certifications:

Stakeholder Centered Coaching - Global Leadership Development Center at Alliant International University
Meyer-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI®) practitioner and 360° Assessments from the Center for Creative Leadership.

Areas of expertise:

- Development of leadership presence
- Storytelling to drive leadership messages
- Public speaking, presentations and platform skills
- Interactive communication skills to foster collaboration
- Emotional intelligence (EQ) to build trusting relationships
- Teambuilding skills including remote teams
- Consultation for change management

Contact: liz@lizkeever.com

Phone: 212-928-1217